Founded in 1877, Jackson State University is one of the nation's leading historically black universities offering a variety of degree programs.

A "People-Friendly University," Jackson State is committed to educating and developing its students, helping them to maximize their potential and reach their goals upon graduation.

Jackson State University is a leader in graduating minority science and technology professionals. Among African American students in Mississippi's institutions of higher learning, Jackson State has enrolled 53% of all chemistry majors, 54% of all biology majors, 66% of all computer science majors, 69% of all mathematics majors and 80% of all physics, atmospheric science and meteorology majors.

Jackson State University is a historically Black, coeducational, research-intensive public institution of higher learning that has been designated by the state as the urban institution of Mississippi.

The University maintains a commitment to effectively serve students from diverse backgrounds. It further develops responsible leaders who are capable and willing to seek solutions to human, social and technological problems, with special emphasis on those relevant to the metropolitan and urban areas of the state, the nation and the world.

Jackson State's mission embraces:

- Tradition
- Accountability
- Learning
- Nurturing
- Service and
- Responsibility.

Embrace your duty as a Jacksonian.
